

Y^{Campaign}-ise Up!

Empowering Generation Y to Prevent HPV and Cervical Cancer

Saturday, January 31, 2009

1-5 p.m.

Bondi Restaurant

333 Fifth Avenue | San Diego

A few blocks south of Market Street and north of Harbor Drive

Educate Yourself

- 99.7% of the cervical cancer cases in the United States are caused by certain types of a virus called HPV, meaning it is the only preventable form of cancer
- By the age of 50, 80% of all women and men will have been positive for HPV at some point in their lives
- Condoms do not provide 100% protection against HPV

Donate

Whether you enter the raffle, purchase food and drinks, or simply donate directly, your contribution will benefit the National Cervical Cancer Coalition (NCCC). Funds go to programs and activities for women, family members, caregivers and health professionals battling issues related to cervical cancer; supplying free educational material related to cervical cancer; and enabling the NCCC to provide a toll-free support hotline for cervical cancer patients

Support

Come support the following organizations helping the NCCC and its prevention and education initiatives:

Visit <http://yiseup.wordpress.com/> for more information and updates

